Our customized COVID-19 testing solutions support your immediate and long-term needs to bring employees back to the workplace quickly and keep them safe once there.

As lockdowns begin to lift, organizations must focus on managing the next phase of the COVID-19 pandemic—bringing people back to the workplace while continuing to protect their health.

We’re a partner for employers looking to implement proactive testing to screen the health of their workplace communities—now and on an ongoing basis—to help reduce COVID-19 exposure and spread.

Testing for Active Infection
To Identify Those with COVID-19

Our test has Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) by the FDA and will diagnose if a person is positive for COVID-19, even if they have not shown symptoms.

Collected via Nasal or Nasopharyngeal Swabs
Saliva collection pending approval

Antibody Testing
To Understand Exposure

This test identifies individuals that have developed an immune response to COVID-19, indicating they were infected and have recovered from the virus.

Collected via Blood Draw

Build Your Return-to-Work Screening Plan with Our Help

Your business has not yet faced a need like this, and you may not know where to start.

At BioAgilytix Diagnostics, sample handling and testing is our business and we can help you craft an efficient strategy that is backed by the best science and appropriate for your employee population.

Considerations for your COVID-19 testing program will include:

Screening Approach
First we’ll help you determine the right volume and frequency of testing and how testing will be conducted and timed.

Sample Collection
Next we’ll define the most efficient and cost-effective collection process for your workplace.

Testing Logistics
We will build a screening schedule optimized for your unique location, population, and staffing support.

Data & Reporting
Through customized reporting we deliver test results in a timely manner and in the format you need.

BioAgilytix Diagnostics also reports all results to the CDC for you, as required by law.

Your Testing Partner Now & for the Long-Term
You’ll need ongoing testing to protect your workplace community over time, and BioAgilytix Diagnostics will support both your immediate and future needs.
